Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group II, claims 13-16, in the reply filed on 08/22/2007, is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that it should be no undue burden on the Examiner to consider all claims in the single application. This is not found persuasive because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons as indicated in the Office Action filed 06/12/2007 and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chang et al.

U.S. Pub. No. 2004/0222987.

Regarding claim 13, Chang teaches a method of acquiring 3D (compute 3-D coordinate) (FIG. 21, element 152) color (FIG. 4, element 40) information, wherein a common light source (a fixed light source) (page 2, column 2, [0044]) and a pattern light source (light pattern) (FIG. 4, element 42) are used to respectively (FIG. 4, element 44) acquire a projected image (FIG. 4, element 50) and a pattern image (image capture by projected light patterns on object) (FIG. 19) to obtain a 3D model of an object (page 2, column 2, [0044]), wherein the pattern light source provides a pattern constructed by more than 3 basic colors (page 5, column 2, [0076]), and generating the pattern comprising:

providing a primary encoding unit (intelligent temporal coding) (page 3, column 2, [0051]);

adding one of the basic colors behind the primary encoding unit to form a new encoding unit (creates series of colored light pattern) (page 4, column 2, [0061]);

confirming whether the new encoding unit follows a predetermined color sequence (determine validity map) (page 4, column 2, [0062]); putting the new encoding unit in a corresponding cluster according to an evaluation result ("The symbols at every image pixel then are estimated by clustering the perceived color and bit error are corrected") (page 4, column 2, [0064]); and repeating the above steps to correctly locate all the encoding units (page 4, column 2, [0065]).

Referring to claim 15, Chang further teaches the method wherein one encoding unit is spaced from other encoding units in the same cluster at a predetermined distance (mapping of clusters base on a determined distance) (page 6, column 1, [0087-0089]).

Regarding claim 16, Chang teaches the method wherein the pattern is constructed by colors (six light patterns are six colors since each light pattern is a colored light pattern) (page 4, column 1, lines 1-3 and [0055]).
